Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Cannot Raise Money

WASHINGTON — The money situation in the Joint Republican Congressional Campaign Committee has become extremely precarious. In fact, the Committee is broke.

Organized last winter for the purpose of waging a militant drive to wrest Congressional control from the New Deal in this year's elections, leaders of the movement began with the high-flown campaign schemes.

A war-chest of $500,000 was to be raised to finance their operations.

Months have passed, and the exchequer is empty today than when they began. Not only have no funds been raised, but considerable debts have been incurred in salaries, rent, and other expenses.

The Committee is so hard up that it is making piteous appeals to Republican Senators and Representatives for donations to meet office costs.

Chief blame for this sad state of affairs is placed on the pudgy shoulders of roly-poly Senator Dan Hastings, head of the Senate division of the Committee.

On the basis of seniority, and Party activities, the place really should have gone to Iowa's state-senator, Dickinson. He was very eager to have it.

But Hastings, coming from Delaware, where rules supreme the mighty House of duPont, put forward the claim that he could produce largess from his political overlord.

So Dickinson was pushed aside, and the job hasn't produced a thin dime from the duPonts, or any other big money sources. He has made a number of frantic fund-seeking trips to New York, and other centers, but all in vain.

Unless a sugar daddy is found quickly it is not unlikely that the Committee will pass out of the picture as far as an active role in the Congressional campaign is concerned.

This will bring no tears to the eyes of the reviving Republican National Committee.

First Lesson

The new Securities Exchange Commission received a snappy lesson at its first meeting on how to stop gambling.

While the five members of the agency were deliberating who would be chairman of the body, a group of correspondents covering the story started a brisk crap game.

Conducted on the front stoop of the temporary War Building, which houses the Federal Trade Commission, the game became so exciting it disturbed the conference that was going on just inside.

Youthful Jim Landis, Brain Trust member of the Commission, stuck his head out of the window. Just as he did so an outraged Washington copper swooped down on the crap shooters, snatched up the dice and several dimes, issued a threatening warning, and stalked off.

"Ha, ha!" gibed the grinning Landis. "Let that be a lesson to you!"

"Yes, sir," batted back one of the scribes, "and let that be a lesson to the Commission on how to stop Wall Street gambling. It really wants to."

Economizers

The National Economy League, perpetual pratter about the tax burdens of the New Deal, especially veterans' benefits, should revise its membership list.

Some of the foremost members, especially the Advisory Board are among the highest paid pensioners on the tax-payers' payroll. Here is a partial list:

General John J. Pershing: $13,500 retired pay plus $8,000 for quarters and commutation. Next to Roosevelt, Pershing draws the biggest government check.

Admiral William S. Sims: $6,000 retired pay.

General James G. Harbord: $6,000 retired pay. Also draws large income from Radio Corporation of America, RCA Photophone, RCA Communications, of which he is chairman, and Bankers Trust.

RELIEF PROBLEM REPORTED SETTLED

CLAIM COUNTY, MAJ. BRAUGHT IN AGREEMENT

No Statements Obtained From Commissioners or Braught

SEE NEW DIRECTOR

Report Conference Was Very Successful One

It was reported by an unimpeachable source Friday that Pickaway-co. left out of state and federal relief programs since July 1, will be restored to good standing in a few days as a result of an amicable conference between the county commissioners and Major E. O. Braught, state relief director, in the latter's office Thursday afternoon.

It was impossible to reach either commissioners or Braught for a statement, Friday, since the commissioners left early in the day to visit some roads on which they contemplate work and Braught has been away from his office all day. More details concerning the reported 'compromise' are expected as soon as the parties in the conference have been interviewed.

NO 'FOREIGN' LABOR

The report circulated was that no out-of-the-county labor will be brought here to complete the airport project on the S. C. Elsie land. It was said earlier in the week that 150 or 160 laborers possibly from Franklin-co would be moved into Pickaway.

One development of the conference, it was reported, was that E. W. Fetter, who was appointed relief director upon the resignation of A. J. 'Jake' Dunkel, will not continue in that role. His job ended with state and federal relief on July 1. The commissioners have a man acceptable to the state relief commission in mind and expect to announce his appointment as director in a few days. No inkling has been obtained as to his identity, the commissioners wishing to keep that silent until he has accepted or declined.

The meeting in Braught's office was at his invitation the 'dads' remaining there for quite a while.

"SUCCESSFUL" PARLEY

Whatever the details of the reported 'compromise' are remain to be seen, but the commissioners should be commended if they have worked out a problem which would possibly have resulted seriously for needy families of the county. It is not safe to even surmise what the complete details of the agreement are but it is known the conference between Braught and the commissioners was a successful one and that an announcement of interest to practically every one in Circleville and Pickaway-co will be available soon.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND, O., July 13.—A man and a woman were shot and killed and two other persons and a policeman were seriously wounded today during a riot at a relief station here.

Names of the victims were not immediately learned.

First reports indicated that several additional policemen had been stationed at relief headquarters in anticipation of trouble and that the actual disorder started when an unidentified man grabbed a pistol from a policeman's holster.

Another policeman saw the act and fired at the officers, and blazed away at the man. Other shots were fired and in the exchange of shots two persons were killed and four were wounded.

Ray Freeman, alleged accomplice of Thacker, is next to go on trial.

STRIKE GRASPS WEST COAST

Fear Entire Coast to Suffer as General Walk-Out Looms; Many Unions to Join.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Organized labor today was unsheathing its sharpest and most terrifying weapon—the general strike—to be plunged into the economic and industrial heart of the golden Pacific coast.

From the populous San Francisco bay region, already suffering acutely, the threat of a general strike—the walkout of all union labor—today had spread the length of the coast as an aftermath of the maritime strike which has all but paralyzed coast shipping for 65 days.

CITIES TO SUFFER

It was the opinion of observers here that only a settlement of the waterfront strike can avert the calling out of a general strike around San Francisco bay—involving among others the cities of San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and Piedmont—and the probable spreading then of the disastrous tieup of the rest of the coast, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Los Angeles and San Diego.

On strike now on the coast are 20,000 marine workers. Added to these in the San Francisco bay area are teamsters, wholesale butchers, cleaners and dyers and chauffeurs for a total of 8,000. And going on strike in this vicinity tonight or tomorrow are 5,000 laundry workers, laundry drivers, retail delivery drivers and more butchers.

And in the background, ready to join the great strike at the command of their leaders, are 110,000 more workers around here. And their leaders are meeting today with indications that they will order the general strike—unless the waterfront employers give in and settle the marine walkout.

Killer, 19, Dies, Victim of Gas

George Shaughnessy Holds Crucifix in One Hand, Telegram From Mother in Other as Fumes Envelop Him; Slew Automobile Salesman.

Saughnessy, who spent his 19th birthday in condemned row of the prison only a few weeks ago, forfeited his life for the brutal slaying of Lon Blankenship, Tucson automobile salesman, whom he shot to death one year ago tomorrow in Nogales, during a hold-up.

FOLLOWED MEXICAN

Doomed Boys Denied Operation

Suggestion of medical authorities that her sons, John, left, and Glenn, right, undergo operations in an effort to save them from death from a strange hereditary paralysis which has left their bodies twisted and deformed, has been refused by Mrs. Alice Dietrich, of Belmont, O., pictured with her husband, Adolph Dietrich. The suggested operation would involve changing the sex of the doomed boys.

SUIT FOLLOWS BOY'S DEATH

Paul Good, Adelphi, Made Defendant by Alfred Dunkle of Hallsville.

CHILLICOTHE, July 13.—Paul Good, Adelphi, was named defendant in a $15,000 damage suit instituted against him in common pleas court Wednesday by Alfred Dunkle, Hallsville, as administrator of the estate of Harry Dunkle, 11, deceased son of the petitioner. The suit is brought on behalf of the boy's parents, Alfred Dunkle, 54, and Mary Dunkle, 37.

The suit arises out of the boy's death from injuries received June 1, 1934, when he was struck by Good's automobile on Route 180 through Hallsville.

The plaintiff claims that about 1:30 p. m. on the date, the boy was crossing from the north to the south side of the highway in the village when Good's car, being operated at 40 miles an hour and out of control so far as preventing the accident was concerned struck and fatally injured the boy. The petition charges Good with careless, negligent and reckless operation in the speed of the car, failing to have it under control so as to avert the accident, and in failing to give warning of approach.

PORCH FALLS, 32 ARE HURT

Women Attending Church Meeting Are Victims At Bethesda; One May Die

BETHESDA, O., July 13.—Thousands of white ants eating away supporting timbers today were blamed for the collapse of a wooden porch at the Epworth Hotel here yesterday when 32 women were injured as they were thrown into a concrete basement 12 feet below after the porch flooring caved in.

Sixteen of the injured were so badly hurt that they required hospital treatment and one of them may die. At least 16 others were treated for cuts and bruises.

AT CHURCH MEETING

The near-tragedy occurred when the porch sagged and gave way under the weight of nearly 100 women attending the school of missions anniversary day of the Methodist church here. They had gathered on the porch to await a call to the dining room.

One entire section of the floor collapsed, dropping a score of women to the concrete flooring below. Other portions of the porch sagged at a sharp angle and other women went tumbling into the basement on top of those who had been the first victims.

Most of the injured were elderly women. Mrs. Anna Miller, of Bethesda, was the most seriously hurt. She suffered a broken back and may die. Others hurt included Mrs. Harry Boyd, of Cambridge; Mrs. Jessie Graham, of Wheeling; Miss Martha Graham, of Wheeling; Mrs. Harry Cunningham, of Steubenville; Mrs. Ona Tarmeter, of Steubenville; Mrs. George Carroll, of Wheeling; Mrs. Eva Woodcock, of Wheeling and Mrs. A. W. Pamply, of Wheeling.

HUNT MAN AS CHILD 2, IS GONE

Demented Man Seen in New York Town May Have Abducted Boy

SEARCH UNDERWAY

Father Swears Vengeance if Man is Found

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 13.—With fears he had been kidnapped growing by the hour, a new and intensive search was launched today for Robert Connor, 21-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connor, mysteriously missing from his home in this exclusive section of Westchester since yesterday evening.

Squads of Boy Scouts joined the hunt as a nightlong search of heavily wooded territory near the infant's home proved fruitless.

His parents at first believed the child merely had wandered away from home and was lost in the woods nearby, but as the hours dragged by with no word from the searching groups, their fear that he had been abducted grew swiftly.

PEDDLER SOUGHT

State police, while refraining from definite adoption of the kidnapping theory, sent out a teletype alarm for a "demented peddler" seen in the vicinity of the Connor home during the past few days. The peddler was described as being about 40 years old, apparently well educated but believed mentally incapacitated.

Neighbors said he had been seen conversing with children near the Connor home and that he had talked vaguely of being a count and possessing castles.

Searchers were weighing the advisability of appealing for a pack of bloodhounds to aid in the search for the missing infant. Two dogs, one a shepherd trained in police work, the other a hunting hound with a bloodhound strain, were used by searching parties last night but lost the scent of the boy, obtained from his clothing, a short distance from his home.

PLAYING IN YARD

Robert was last seen, his parents said, playing in a sandpile with a neighbor's child, Ruth Schwagerman. The girl went to her home for supper about 6 o'clock last evening, leaving Robert at the sandpile. A short time later, Connor went in search of his son but found no trace of him.

Connor, father of the boy and a civil engineer employed by the state insurance department, was haggard and weary as he sat at home, receiving reports from police and the searching parties.

Up to noon, no trace of the boy had been found and no demand for ransom had been presented.

"Would you pay a ransom?" Connor was asked.

"Where would I get it?" he asked wearily. "I'd do anything to get the boy back but I have only a small salary from my job."

He passed a hand over his eyes. "But if anything has happened to Bobby—well, wait until I catch the man who did it."

Given Oil Team Wins 1-0 Duel From Straw-board 9

A single run scored in the seventh inning when they bunched three of their four hits gave the Given Oils, fast-improving colored softball team, a well-earned 1-0 victory over the Container Corporation.

Bob Jones on the mound for the Given Oils gave four hits and walked two. At crucial points in the game he slipped through strikeouts and during the nine innings gathered eight. The most important strikeout of the bunch came in the ninth frame with the tying run on third base and two out. Rich Smalley, late of the McClarren Meats, was at bat and had two strikes and two balls on him. Jones winged the next ball plateward and in Smalley's excitement caused by the tenseness of the moment he swung at a ball that was high and outside. It would have been ball three.

DROPPED BALL DOES IT

Al Baker, new addition to the C. C. C. of A. squad, was on the mound for the losers. His left hand tosses limited the Givens to four bingles but as said before three of them came together. Regardless of the three hits the Oils wouldn't have scored but for an infield error.

Neither team had been able to dent the plate in the first six frames and the straw-board had been easy in its half of the seventh. Then came the Given half of the frame.

Louis Hill, first man up, singled sharply to center field. Bob Jones stung a single through the infield but Don Johnson forced Hill at third. Baker to G. Brungs. Alfred Jones singled sharply into center field but Watson's fast return of the ball kept Bob Jones from trying for home. The sacks were loaded with one out. The infield was drawn in and Lewis drove a ball directly to Stevens at short. With a certain force at the plate and a

Citizens of North Brookfield, Mass., turned out en masse to honor two of their native sons, Connie Mack, the celebrated baseball manager, and George M. possible double play at first base, Stevens dropped the ball as he started to throw it.

Although he was able to retrieve the leather in time to force Johnson at third, Jones scored what proved to be the winning run.

ONLY SCORING CHANCE

The Givens were able to put

only one other man on third base during the game that being Hoston who took second on Stevens' low throw to first base in the sixth session. He died on the look-in corner.

The straw-board had runners die on third, and second in the fourth frame when Smalley grounded out for the third out. Another threat was wasted in the fifth when Strawser took second on Don Johnson's miff of his pop in short left field. Jones reached his highest peak of the game in the seventh frame when he forced Smalley and Strawser to pop to him and Baker to miss the third strike after Walter Brungs had opened the inning with a single through Johnson.

The game was nip and tuck with efficient umpiring having an important part in it. There was no kick on any decision either on balls and strikes or on plays at bases (that is no kicks except from a few constant 'erriers who wouldn't like it even if it was good).

The defeat of the straw-board makes its second in a row after finishing the first half undefeated. Manager Norris used a juggled lineup for the fray with Beatty playing second base, Smalley left field, and Baker in the box. The Given lineup was the same as it has been all year.

MECCA-OIL TONIGHT

Tonight, providing it doesn't rain, the Mecca restaurant and Circleville Oils will play a game postponed from July 3. The result may have an important bearing on the outcome of the second half.

TEACHOUT VICTOR

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 13.—The Columbus Red Birds, who regained their stride and made it two in a row over St. Paul by their victory yesterday, tackled the Apostles again today.

Effective pitching by Bud Teachout aided the Birds in their 8-to-4 win yesterday. The Columbus club now is only one game behind Indianapolis, the second-place team in the spirited American Association fight.

The first-place Minneapolis Millers, who smothered Toledo 13 to 3 yesterday for their fifth straight win, today faced the Mud-hens again.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

FOR DOWNRIGHT FIGHT, determination, sticktuitiveness, and team spirit there isn't a team in the softball league that can compare with the Given Oils. That outfit was the door-mat of the league until the final stages of the first half, but right now that team is plenty tough—Bob Jones is pitching splendid ball and his mates are playing plenty of ball behind him. It took the Eshelman outfit 19 innings to beat the team and it whipped the straw-board, so mark in your little green book right now that the Givens will be contenders when the final gun is sounded * * *

The Circleville Oils, out of action for two weeks because of rain, will get plenty of work next week unless rain again interferes. The team is booked with the Circle City dairy Monday and with the Eshelman Feeds on Friday in a tilt postponed from this week. An effort is being made to transfer the Circleville Oil-Purina Chow game to next Thursday, that date being vacated by the Mecca-Container Corporation game since several Mecca boys will be in the O. N. G. camp * * *

Other games on next week's schedule are:
Tuesday, Given Oils vs. McClarren meats;
Wednesday, Eshelman Feeds vs. Purina Chows.

Lutheran Men Meet

Trinity Lutheran brotherhood held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the parish house. Following the business session the members were served with lunch by Clarence Wolf and his committee.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to entertainment in charge of George Griffith. Harry Bartholomew and John Hummel. Consisting of athletic feats and contests of various types.

DETROIT WINS LEAD IN LOOP

Cochrane's Men Knock Off
Yankees and Stop Broaca's Streak.

NEW YORK, July 13.—What-ever thoughts New York fans had concerning a nickle world's series of this October were somewhat huddled today following changes in the standings which ousted the Yankees from the top of the American league and saw another cut seriously into the slim lead of the Giants in the National.

The supple arm of Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit pitcher, blasted the Yankees from the top and with the same sweeping motion moved the Tigers into the lead. Rowe, pitching the best game of his career, fanned 11 of the slugging Yankees to pull out a 4 to 2 victory and at the same time snap the four game winning streak of his rival, young Johnny Broaca.

The Giants saw their leadership whittled a full game when they split a doubleheader with the Pirates while the Chicago Cubs were defeating the Boston Braves, 7-4. The Giants now are but a half game ahead of the Cubs where they were one and one half games ahead yesterday.

TYPICAL OF SPIRIT

Excellent work in the field and with the bat gave Rowe all the support in the world when he needed it and the game was typical of the spirit Manager Mickey Cochrane has instilled into the Tigers this year. They have been a fighting, clawing team and one that gives Detroit its first potential pennant champion since the days of 1924 and Ty Cobb.

state, announced that Walter G. Nickels, of New Philadelphia, will be chairman of his state campaign committee, and Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, won the endorsement of Prosecutor Frazier Reams, prominent Toledo Democrat.

Sen. Fess, speaking at a Republican rally at McConellsville which sent a message of greetings to President Herbert Hoover, said that President Franklin D. Roosevelt must reverse his program to lead the country out of the depression.

"We will never get anywhere until the profit motive is restored to business and the business man will employ labor," he declared. "If President Roosevelt doesn't reverse his program, we will reverse it for him this fall."

Judge Wanamaker issued a statement saying:

TOO REACTIONARY

"I am opposed to Sen. Fess because I believe him to be the most conservative and reactionary member of the Republican party in the U. S. senate."

Candidate Vorys had this to say: "In serious times like these, we need thoughtful, constructive suggestions and criticisms and not mere fault finding and attacks on personalities."

Meanwhile, Rep. West, speaking at Youngstown, told his hearers: "What has the New Deal done for Ohio? Recovery agencies have brought more than $750,000,000 to this state."

He accepted the challenge of the Henry P. Fletcher to make the New Deal the pivotal issue of the forthcoming election and declared he intended to do some challenging himself.

Providing he wins the nomination, West pledged himself to challenge the Republican nominee to a series of debates on the New Deal.

CANDIDATE OF "GANG"

Meanwhile, former Governor Vic Donahey, one of West's opponents, charged in a statement that West was not the "New Deal candidate but the candidate of Ohio's Democratic gang."

At Lorain, C. Nelson Sparks, Akron, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, ripped into alleged extravagance of the Democratic administration and said he would abolish the state aeronautical department if elected governor.

"What in the name of high heaven," he demanded, "do we need with an aeronautical department?"

Those were but the highlights of the merry political race over night. During the next 30 days, until the primaries August 14, the events will come in an even swifter parade. Whatever the result, they promise one of the most exciting pre-primary campaigns in Ohio's history.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THEY tell great stories in books and papers about tenderfoot guys that came out west and got thrown off horses. Seems like there ain't anything funnier than getting thrown off a horse, if the guy that gets bumped is a tenderfoot from the east, according to these cerc writers of books and things. Now I never could see much fun in anybody getting thrown real hard. It really ain't as much sport as you might think, even for a salesman from the east. And, as a matter of fact, no cow man with any sense would let a tenderfoot climb up on a real bad pony. These cowpunchers don't like funerals half as well as a lot of fiction writers think they do.

Well, one of these tales that I heard was about a fellow from New York that landed on a ranch down in Texas, and he was kinda smart about it, so the boys found him a right bad little pony, and was inviting him to get on and take a little canter out to see the cows.

"I don't want to get on so very bad," says the guy from New York. "If I thought the pony was a going to kick or anything, I'd just walk over, because I don't mind walking. You know this is my first attempt to ride."

"Don't mind that a bit, Bud," says the rough guy, "because this here pony ain't got a thing on you. It's his first attempt at being rode, too. You can both start out together and learn."

EVEN MAYOR CADY OBSERVES THE 'DAY'

All of the superstitions associated with Friday the 13th were apparently having no evil effects in Circleville today.

City physicians reported no accidents, the fire department had received no calls and even members of the police department were taking it easy as the day was marked with an air of quietness.

Wilbur "Rat-tail" Kraft, this city, was arrested at 3:30 a. m. today on a charge of intoxication and it began to seem like a Friday the 13th when he was brought before Mayor W. B. Cady, but this thought was dispelled when the mayor said $5 and costs—and all suspended.

CORN AND HOG CHECKS TO BE IN MAIL SOON

Reach Farmers by August 15
Belief; One Ohio County
Receives Sum.

With more than one-third of all county corn-hog allotment committees authorized to prepare regular contracts for the final signatures of producers, distributed among corn-hog farmers or approximately $130,000,000 in first installment corn-hog checks is expected to be near the peak load by late July or early August, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today.

The approximately 1,200,000 contracts are of two types. One includes a rider signed by the producer, agreeing to accept necessary adjustment in the production figures on which the payment is based, and entitling him to receive the payment before the adjustment is made. First installments on 84,253 contracts of this type had been paid through July 9.

SIGNED TWICE

The second or "regular" contract must be signed twice by the producer, once before adjustment is made in the figures, and again when the final adjustment has been made and the amount definitely determined. On July 9 first installment payments on 36,124 contracts of this type had been made. Allotment committees in 754 of the 2068 counties participating in the corn-hog program are finishing or have already finished the routine work of typing adjusted figures into the "regular" contract forms and obtaining the producers' second signatures. States farthest advanced with this work are Alabama, California, Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Virginia and Washington. Adjustment of contract figures in over 90 per cent of the participating Ohio counties has been completed and contracts from over 40 counties are on the way to the Administration offices in Washington, D. C. Good progress is reported from other states, including the Corn Belt states of Kansas, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota.

STATES LISTED

Disbursement on first installment corn-hog adjustment payment checks through July 9 total $7,702,070.45. The amounts paid by states are: Alabama, $13,350.05; Arkansas, $677.20; Indiana, $68,239.25; Iowa, $5,212,315.70; Maryland, $2,636.00; Michigan, $680.00; Minnesota, $1,039,595.70; Missouri, $975,178.70; Nebraska, $23,964.00; Nevada, $16,480.00; Ohio, $28,627.05; South Dakota, $96,262.20; Virginia, $2,230.35; Washington, $85,079.50; West Virginia, $8,557.20; Wisconsin, $125,197.55. The total disbursements through July 9 represent payments on 84,253 early payment contracts to producers in 296 counties, and on 36,124 regular payment contracts in 112 counties.

Efficient Arrangement of Kitchen Essential Says Mrs. George Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

Just how important can efficient arrangement of equipment and facilities be in the kitchen? A woman I know was observed while she was making a cake. It required fifty processes and one hundred and forty steps. Her kitchen was then rearranged by an expert in space saving and the same cake was made by the same woman, under the same conditions—this time, however, it required only twenty-four processes and twenty-four steps. The cake was made with just half the work, and with one-sixth as many steps.

Our first consideration in modernizing the kitchen workshop is to arrange the equipment in logical order for continuous, straight-line flow of material. This means that the refrigerator should be nearest the food delivery door, because there is where all perishable foods are stored. Next in line is the ideal kitchen should be a counter work surface, next to the refrigerator, for cold food preparation. The wall cabinets over and the floor cabinets under this counter should be equipped with the implements that are used in the preparation of cold foods, such as salads, desserts, refreshments, etc. Even the location of all the tools can be studied to minimize the amount of reaching or lifting.

The Sink and Counters
Next in line is the clean-up counter, of course consisting of a sink (and an automatic electric dishwasher if possible). Dishes, pans, bowls, forks, and all utensils soiled at the adjacent counter can be placed on the clean-up counter without moving.

Then comes the hot food preparation counter. Food that is going to be cooked must first be made ready—and requires certain items of equipment, all of which are conveniently located in the upper and lower cabinets, right within reach. When food is ready to cook you don't want to walk back across the kitchen. Therefore, next in line is the range. It also may be equipped with adjacent wall and floor cabinets, efficiently equipped. These hold all accessories likely to be needed at the range. The range is closest to the service door to the dining room. Thus you will see that straight-line production can reduce processes and motions to a minimum. It saves steps, saves labor, speeds the flow of work, brings about greater efficiency and adds greater convenience and comfort to the housewife.

Working Surfaces and Walls
With this much accomplished the next essential is to make the kitchen lovely, cheerful, inspiring. For it is a woman's workshop—and should have these feminine qualities to which wives and mothers are entitled while at their work. This is done with color and in the selection of easily cleaned wall and floor materials. Tile, paint and washable papers for the former; linoleum for the latter.

Cleaning difficulties are simplified by "coving" the base. The linoleum floor continues unbroken up into this coving. There is no crack or angle to clean. You can clean this area just like the floor; in fact it is a part of the floor. It makes for greater ease, greater speed, no banging and marring of furniture, no bruised knuckles. You can stand right up to the work surfaces, lean against them in fact, for this cut-away section provides ample toe room. It protects shoes and the finish of the base cabinets, too. Any linoleum salesman can have the kitchen floor laid this way.

In addition to the cheerful general illumination of the entire kitchen provided by a central ceiling light, light should be provided for your convenience right over the working surfaces where you prepare food—and over the clean-up counter where you wash vegetables, pans and dishes. With this flood of rightly-placed light it be-

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can usually get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

comes easy to get every last trace of dirt out of the celery, every last grain of sand out of the spinach. Seeing is made easy, eye-strain prevented.

Look at your own kitchen. Perhaps it can be re-arranged along the stream-line plan of work without spending money; perhaps you need a new work table or two. A new cabinet or some other piece of equipment. And add those extra lights! They will help right away.

MRS. GEORGE O. THURN.

First Aids For Housekeeping

The much discussed cocktail shaker of pre-repeal days may play an appreciated part in the dry household, for the mixing of summer beverages. For instance, iced coffee is never so delicious as when shaken with the cream and ice; use one half cup cream to three cups strong, freshly made coffee; add a few ice cubes to the shaker, and shake vigorously until the shaker is frosted. Pour at once into tall glasses. Chocolate makes a good addition to this; add one third as much cocoa (made as for beverage) as coffee; the same proportion of cream, and plenty of ice. Use the same shaker for blending fruit juices.

If the bread board slips when used on the enamel top kitchen table try pushing four flat rubber-tipped tacks into it, one at each corner of the underside. Such tacks are to be found at the five-and-ten cent stores, the hardware stores and elsewhere, for use in chair legs.

Buy frilled paper cups for use in the freezing compartments of the refrigerator. This makes the mousers and ice creams in individual portions and at the same time saves washing the drawer.

Washing a rug at home? If it's an Oriental or other non-fading rug, spread it on a flat table, outdoors, but not in the sun. Make a large pan of clean soapuds, using hot water and pure soap; use a clean, small scrub brush, and starting at one end of the rug, scrub gently, using a circular motion, a little area at a time. Use plenty of suds; proceed until the whole rug has been scrubbed; then use a clean sponge and clean warm water and sponge off the suds, using a circular motion, and covering only a small area at a time.

Repeat the sponging with clear, warm water until all traces of suds have disappeared, and the sponge water stays clear. Dry by spreading on clean papers on the grass, but not in a sunny spot. Air for several days; do not beat, shake too vigorously, or hang over a line. This is the process followed in the hand "shampooing" of fine Oriental rugs by experts.

BAN FORMAL CLOTHES

NUERNBERG, Germany.—Participants in the Fourth Annual Saengerfest here have been advised that only street clothes may be worn, tuxedos and evening clothes being barred even for the orchestra and the directors. Those in charge of the annual singing festival have asked that members of the various clubs participating wear blue suits or ordinary, dark street clothes.

Yet it seems unfair to immortalize the old oaken bucket and say nothing for the Mason fruit jar.

Want to Make Watermelon Salad?

This may serve as an appetizer or a salad. Have the melon icy cold and all other ingredients cold. With a vegetable cutter, cut balls from the melon, which should be very ripe and have a good color. Remove seeds carefully. Put the balls back in the refrigerator to chill while the plates are arranged. On each plate a nest of cleaned, chilled watercress. Arrange the watermelon balls, garnish with a sprig of mint, and dress with chilled French dressing.

BUNCH OF GRAPES SALAD
Six halves canned pears; one pound green or red grapes; one package cream cheese; one fourth cup nut meats; one half cup mayonnaise. Drain the chilled pears thoroughly; turn upside down in crisp, cold lettuce each half pear over a spoonful of mayonnaise mixed with nuts; spread the rounded side of the pears with cream cheese; then lay on this halves of red or green grapes from which seeds are removed. Insert to represent a stem, a mint stem with leaves removed. Pour a very little French dressing over all.

CANTALOUPE SALAD

Three cantaloupes; three table spoons green mint cherries; three tablespoons French dressing made with orange juice in place of vinegar. Scoop out the cantaloupes with a ball cutter; chill thoroughly, then arrange in a crisp lettuce leaf, sprinkle with French dressing then with the finely chopped mint cherries. Serve very cold.

CHEESE AND JELLY SALAD

Two packages cream cheese; one half cup chopped pecans; glass of currant jelly. Mayonnaise. Mash the cheese and mix to a paste with mayonnaise. Add the nuts. Mix well. Line small fancy moulds, or gem pans with the mixture then fill the centers with the jelly. Cover this with more of the cheese mixture. Chill thoroughly. Remove from the moulds. Arrange on crisp hearts of lettuce and serve with a snappy French dressing made by adding a little tomato ketchup and Worcestershire to the regular French dressing recipe.

Depositors Get Money

THE fact that the new federal law guaranteeing bank deposits has received its first application directs attention anew to this act, passed as part of the program to restore public confidence in the nation's bank.

Depositors in the closed Fond du Lac state bank at East Peoria, Ill., have received from the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation checks covering their deposits.

The insurance law has been in operation only six months. During this period, however, only two insured banks have failed. In the 10 years from 1923 to 1932, the average number of bank failures for the first 6 months of each year was 447.

The deposit-guarantee law was only one of several steps taken by the government to cure a condition that threatened complete collapse of the banking system. Public confidence had been undermined by the increasing number of bank failures. Heroic treatment of the situation was seen to be an urgent need.

The insurance plan was projected in an effort to meet this. It represented what many bankers and others regarded as a radical move. Guarantee of bank deposits had been tried in one or two western states with disastrous results. The same fate was believed by some to await it if attempted on a national scale by the federal government.

These fears to date have been unjustified. The law has helped to restore public confidence in banks, which is an important element in the soundness of any banking system. It, therefore, is deserving of credit.

All you need to fight the wicked rich without danger to yourself is courage and a nice fortune.

Work For Prisoners

SOLUTION of a troublesome prison problem is provided in the Tarver bill, recently signed by the president. The measure not only seeks to provide useful employment for federal prisoners but to give them training in trades that will be useful to them after they are released.

It removed restrictions that had prevented the working of inmates, yet, in the opinion of the president, will make for no "important competition with private industry or labor." The plan is to be worked out in detail by a government corporation. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the belief that it offered a practical substitute for criminal punishment of earning one's livelihood.

The new law, of course, does not help states in solving the problem of giving their prisoners employment. This problem will become more or less acute next January when the federal labor bill passed several years ago becomes effective. Under it, prison-manufactured goods are barred from interstate commerce. After it goes into effect, a state will have to maintain its convicts in idleness or put them to work producing supplies for its own use.

An increase in June marriages is reported from many parts of the country, this being interpreted as an indication of returning prosperity. Let us hope prosperity lasts longer than most of the marriages are likely to do.

Alas! No man can look as important as Junior wishes Dad to seem when the fellers are watching.

"Man let woman have her way 4000 years ago," says a writer. So 4000 years is the age of discretion.

Now a Chicago packing house is trying to change the name of "hot dogs" to "fanks." As a member of the public we vote "no."

THE LONE WOLF SON

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS

Aboard the S.S. "Navarre," bound for New York, Michael Lanyard, reformed "Lone Wolf" and underworld celebrity, is reunited with his son when he thought dead. The boy, "Maurice Parry," has followed in the "Lone Wolf's" footsteps, but Lanyard hopes his son's interest in Fanno Crozier, lovely daughter of the wealthy Mrs. Pay Crozier, will prove a good influence. Maurice steals Mrs. Crozier's Habsburg emeralds. Lanyard retrieves them for Fay. Detective Crane warns Lanyard to watch out for the vengeance of "Jack Knife" Anderson and "English Archie," two gunmen whom Lanyard exposed for cheating Maurice at cards. Shortly afterwards, the gangsters steal Mrs. Crozier's emeralds and plant them in Lanyard's cabin. Maurice saves his father by substituting imitations and secretly placing the emeralds in the purser's care for Fay. Notwithstanding Lanyard's innocence, Detective Plon is suspicious of him. Later, when one of "Jack Knife's" accomplices tries to intimidate Lanyard into stealing the emeralds and splitting fifty-fifty with the gang, Maurice appears on the scene, masked. He knocks the gangster unconscious, planting a string of pearls stolen from the notorious gold-digger, Tess Boyce, in the thug's pocket. Tess, in gratitude to Maurice for catching the thief, gives a dinner in his honor. Lanyard disapproves of the society of Tess Boyce for his son, but Fanno asks him to lead Maurice to her. Discussing the Boyce robbery, Plon informs Lanyard that the prisoner swore Lanyard and Maurice planted the necklace on him. M. Isquith, Tess's companion, compliments her on her progress with Maurice and Lanyard, adding that "they will have them where they want them." Crane is suspicious of Tess's interest in Maurice. He surmises the truth about the Boyce robbery. Crane overhears Tess tell Maurice that Lanyard's reform was just elocution. The detective warns Lanyard to keep his son away from her. Fanno and the attempt will be made to steal the emeralds. Lanyard advises Fay to arrange for their protection when the boat docks.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"But I supposed—of course!—that the Boyce burglar was the same one who had robbed me, and once he was arrested, that was the end of that."

"He was in all likelihood a simple cat's-paw for the brains that planned the business. You must understand, madame, criminals of his class are seldom more than intelligences too clever ever to show their own hands."

"You do alarm me," Fay Crozier ruefully confessed. "What do you advise?"

"Instruct M. Crozier by wireless to have some safe-deposit company meet the Navarre with an armored car, take charge of the emeralds and store them in its vaults till you wish to wear them."

"What a head!" Fay Crozier cried, beaming. "What a master crime lord when the Lone Wolf retired on his honors!"

"Then you will live."

"I bet you may believe it."

With this Lanyard rose: Fanno, all aglow, if only from walking, and somewhat prettier than he had ever seen her, was approaching with Maurice—who, it wasn't possible to overlook, likewise wore a deeply contented expression.

"So there you are!" Fay Crozier snapped. "I should think you'd be ashamed to come back from exercising looking like that, and putting your poor old mother in the wrong. In my time children had some consideration for their elders."

"Young man, your father's been asking for you."

"I called on him three times in his cabin this morning. That is, I tried to, but each time the steward told me he had not yet rung for his coffee."

"We've been watching them get the mail plane ready for its take-off," Fanno put in. "It's terribly interesting."

"When do they launch it, child?"

"Sometime this afternoon. Think: it will be in New York by nightfall! And this poky ship not till late tomorrow. The pilot says there's a room for two passengers. I should simply adore the experience."

"Should you?" Fay asked in an absent-minded voice.

"Wouldn't you, Mother? Why not? What an adventure!"

"I much prefer to die on a dry bed with my shoes off."

"I have a message for you, my father," Maurice reported, "or an invitation, I should say, from Maurice Boyce. She wants to know if you will lunch with her and M. Isquith and the Rajah today, and afterwards play contract. They wanted me to give them their revenge—the cards ran large for me last night, but I had to beg off for this afternoon because I'm giving Fanno luncheon."

"In that event,"—Lanyard, with a lightened heart, gave his shoulders a whimsical lift—"how can I refuse?"

"My dear Lanyard!" Fay Crozier remonstrated. "After all! Of course, we mustn't judge Maurice harshly, he's so young and inexperienced; but you are a man of the world—you owe your self-respect something."

"Ah, but seriously, madame: seeing that it's the honor of family, a sense, that my son won heavily last night—"

"And that you're an incurable card-hound, and a bid to a bridge-party to you is the same as smoke of battle to an old war-horse—all the same, I must say I don't just see you slumming!"

Lanyard on his part perceived, at the outset of that afternoon at cards, no reason to repent his readiness to substitute for Maurice. Not recalling the light in Fanno's eyes that morning, the shine of his son's, he could hardly be blamed for believing—that the girl was making famous progress in her campaign to "save" Maurice, but his old infatuation with the game quickened to the discovery that he was pitting his skill against cardsmen worthy of the metal.

Of the four, Tess Boyce was the poorest player, although by no means to be despised, whether as partner or antagonist. Isquith, pre-serving his patrician pose whether winning or losing, played with a cool-headed precision rarely met with outside the ranks of experts; in all the sitting Lanyard failed to see him fumble once or make a single misplay. The Rajah of Ladore, in whose suite the game was staged, had manifestly studied under the British masters till they had no more to teach him; only in respect of bidding was his game second-rate. There the others had him at a definite disadvantage. The Boyce and Isquith were adept in the American technique, and Lanyard no less, thanks to the native card-sense which had enabled him to grasp at a glance its superiority to the methods in vogue all over Europe; while the Rajah was handicapped by acquaintance only with the bidding practice of the British, still, in that day, owing to their reluctant swing from auction to contract, at a stage of retarded development.

But the best of cardsmen could have made little of the hands the Rajah held. The ill run of luck that had been his the night before, today stood by him. Lanyard soon grew reconciled to the prospect of losing a rubber when the cut for partners gave him the Rajah. His own cards were nothing to crow about, even though strong enough, for all that, to enable him to hold his own and now then score a gain. He was playing for the least stake at the table, a quarter a point. The others, making theirs half a dollar a point at the outset, and carrying Lanyard, when they cut him, for the extra quarter, doubled their stakes at the Rajah's suggestion when he had lost his third rubber and, again at his suggestion, toward the end of the sitting, partnered to two dollars a point. Like many of his race, a passionate gambler, he was a poor loser. At first morose, he grew sullen, and toward the end angry. Many thousands down and still holding wretched cards, he cut for the last rubber in a temper that lent the atmosphere a tension distinctly unpleasant.

"I'll make you a sporting offer, madame," he said to Tess Boyce, who was Lanyard's partner, while she was dealing the first round: "a pound a point—I should say, five dollars."

"Not this baby!" Tess shook her flame-colored tresses, laughing. "I haven't got the wealth of the Indies to back me. Tell you what I will do, though." She dealt the last card, and signed to the others to put off picking up their hands. "I'm mad about that stone." An emerald ring, a finger ring, a pigeon-blood ruby on the dark, small, royal hand. "I'll play you for that. What do you say? I'll bet everything you have lost today against your ruby ring."

Popeye Booked for Cliftona

Popeye's double, Albert Coonie, of Columbus, will make a personal appearance at the Cliftona Theatre for one day only on Wednesday, July 18. Coonie's a native of Columbus and for a number of years has played in vaudeville, doubling with his brother, as The Coonie Brothers in monologue, song and dancing specialties. His work has brought him to almost every city in the country and the Cliftona is fortunate in booking this character.

Bradley Page, who portrays "The Cougar," in the new Buick Jones Columbia film, "The Fighting Ranger" coming to the Grand Theatre, is becoming one of the most sought-after "heavy" men on the screen today.

It seems now that villainous France staged all those executions in Germany—despite all Hitler could do to repel the foe.

Radium Aids In Cure of 'Leukemia'

Disease of the Blood Responds to This Form of Treatment

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

NUMEROUS ANNOUNCEMENTS have been appearing in the newspapers recently of a malady called "leukemia." I have received several requests for information about this disease.

Contrary to the popular belief, this disease is not a new or strange affliction of mankind, but has been recognized for many years. In spite of marked progress of medical science, the actual cause of this disturbance has never been discovered.

The disease was formerly regarded as almost certain to be fatal. But there are certain forms of this affliction that respond to treatment.

There are three chief varieties of leukemia. These are given big names—"acute leukemia," "chronic myelogenous leukemia" and "chronic lymphatic leukemia." The acute form is the most severe and at present little can be done for this serious affliction. In this type of anemia there is a marked and sudden increase in the number of certain white blood cells, the disease leading to severe damage to the system.

As a rule, acute leukemia occurs in individuals under twenty-five years of age. The attack often follows a simple infection, such as tonsillitis or a boil.

Use of Radium

Chronic leukemia comes on slowly. The victim suffers from exhaustion and bleeding perhaps. Due to low resistance and the general weakness caused by the anemia these sufferers are extremely susceptible to the common infectious or "catching" diseases. The chronic form of myelogenous leukemia is met between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five.

Chronic lymphatic leukemia attacks older persons, usually between forty-five and sixty years. But there is no definite age limitation. I am often asked what is the best treatment for leukemia. This depends entirely upon the type, the age of the patient, and the extent of the disease. Within recent years beneficial results have been obtained by the expert application of radium over the region of the spleen.

When radium is not available, beneficial results are often obtained by the use of X-ray treatments. In certain cases improvement has followed the administration of a drug called benzol. This is given in capsules, but can only be prescribed by the physician in charge of the case. Transfusions of blood from healthy persons are of value in strengthening the sufferer and preventing fatal complications. It is often necessary to repeat this procedure.

Answers to Health Queries

M. O. Q.—Is yeast fattening if taken twice daily?
A.—Yeast in itself is not fattening. It is usually taken to aid the elimination and keep the system clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. L. O. M. Q.—I had X-ray pictures taken which showed ulcers of the duodenum. What would you advise?

A.—Doubtless your doctor has advised you exactly what to do. Diet is important.

One of the principal occupations of the chronic faultfinder is to criticize the newspapers. They find fault with the newspapers, even though they are asking for and receiving favors from them at the same time.

Telling the owners how to run them is a favorite hobby with them.

In spite of the fact that newspapers are great community leaders, in spite of the fact that they have done more than anyone else for the betterment of the home city, in spite of the fact that they are day by day fighting the battles of the home city and that they are the ones who make a city progress faster, in spite of the fact that if they were not there fighting the city would move back so fast that in a short time there would be no city, people continue to find fault with them.

No newspaper can please all the people all the time. Nothing can please all the people in any city. Every city has a few people who make it a business to like nothing that is done by the progressive people; they are just natural born kickers. To ignore them is the best policy. Newspapers are business institutions; some people think they are charitable institutions, while others think the publishers run them for the pleasure they get out of it.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WEEKLY PAPER FOR THE CIRCLEVILLE AREA

OWNED BY ROBERT S. ALLEN

Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Cannot Raise Money

WASHINGTON — The money situation in the Joint Republican Congressional Campaign Committee has become extremely precarious. In fact, the Committee is broke.

Organized last winter for the purpose of waging a militant drive to wrest Congressional control from the New Deal in this year's elections, leaders of the movement began with the high-flown campaign schemes.

A war-chest of $600,000 was to be raised to finance their operations.

Months have passed, and the exchequer is empty today than when they began. Not only have no funds been raised, but considerable debts have been incurred in salaries, rent, and other expenses.

The Committee is so hard up that it is making pitiful appeals to Republican Senators and Representatives for donations to meet office costs.

Chief blame for this sad state of affairs is placed on the pudgy shoulders of roly-poly Senator Dan Hastings, head of the Senate division of the Committee.

On the basis of seniority, and party activities, the place really should have gone to Iowa's state senator, Dickinson. He was very eager to have it.

But Hastings, coming from Delaware, where rules supreme the mighty House of duPont, put forward the claim that he could produce largess from his political overlord.

So Dickinson was pushed aside, and the job given Hastings.

To date he hasn't produced a thin dime from the duPonts, or any other big money sources. He has made a number of frantic fund-seeking trips to New York, and other centers, but all in vain.

Unless a sugar daddy is found quickly it is not unlikely that the Committee will pass out of the picture as far as an active role in the Congressional campaign is concerned.

This will bring no tears to the eyes of the reviving Republican National Committee.

First Lesson

The new Securities Exchange Commission received a snappy lesson at its first meeting on how to stop gambling.

While the five members of the agency were deliberating who would be chairman of the body, a group of correspondents covering the story started a brisk crap game.

Conducted on the front stoop of the temporary War Building, which houses the Federal Trade Commission, the game became so exciting it disturbed the conference that was going on just inside.

Youthful Jim Landis, Brain Trust member of the Commission, stuck his head out of the window. Just as he did so an outraged Washington copper swooped down on the crap shooters, snatched up the dice and several dimes, issued a threatening warning, and stalked off.

"Ha, ha!" glibed the grinning Landis. "Let that be a lesson to you!"

"Yes, sir," batted back one of the scribes, "and let that be a lesson to the Commission on how to stop Wall Street gambling if it really wants to."

Economizers

The National Economy League, perpetual pratter about the tax burdens of the New Deal, especially veterans' benefits, should revise its membership list.

Some of the foremost members, especially the Advisory Board are among the highest-paid pensioners on the tax-payers' payroll. Here is a partial list:

General John J. Pershing: $13,500 retired pay plus $8,000 for quarters and commutation. Next to Roosevelt, Pershing draws the biggest government check.

Admiral William S. Sims: $6,000 retired pay.

General James G. Harbord: $6,000 retired pay. Also draws large income from Radio Corporation of America, RCA Photophone, RCA Communications, of which he is Chairman; and Bankers Trust.

RELIEF PROBLEM REPORTED SETTLED

CLAIM COUNTY, MAJ. BRAUGHT IN AGREEMENT

No Statements Obtained From Commissioners or Braught

SEE NEW DIRECTOR

Report Conference Was Very Successful One

It was reported by an unimpeachable source Friday that Pickaway-co. left out of state and federal relief programs since July 1, will be restored to good standing in a few days as a result of an amicable conference between the county commissioners and Major E. O. Braught, state relief director, in the latter's office Thursday afternoon.

It was impossible to reach either commissioners or Braught for a statement, Friday, since the commissioners left early in the day to visit some roads on which they contemplate work and Braught has been away from his office all day. More details concerning the reported 'compromise' are expected as soon as the parties in the conference have been interviewed.

NO 'FOREIGN' LABOR

The report circulated was that no out-of-the-county labor will be brought here to complete the airport project on the S. C. Elsenland. It was said earlier in the week that 150 or 160 laborers possibly from Franklin-co would be moved into Pickaway.

One development of the conference, it was reported, was that E. W. Fink, who was appointed relief director upon the resignation of A. J. 'Jake' Dunkel, will not continue in that role.

His job ended with state and federal relief on July 1. The commissioners have a man acceptable to the state relief commission in mind and expect to announce his appointment in a few days. No inkling has been obtained as to his identity. The commissioners wishing to keep that silent until he has accepted or declined.

The meeting in Braught's office was at his invitation the 'dads' remaining there for quite a while.

'SUCCESSFUL' PARLEY

Whatever the details of the reported 'compromise' are remain to be seen, but the commissioners should be commended if they have worked out a problem which would possibly have resulted seriously for needy families of the county. It is not safe to even surmise what the complete details of the agreement are but it is known the conference between Braught and the commissioners was a successful one and that an announcement of relief to practically every one in Circleville and Pickaway-co will be available soon.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND, O., July 13.—A man and a woman were shot and killed and two other persons and a policeman were seriously wounded today during a riot at a relief station here.

Names of the victims were not immediately learned.

First reports indicated that several additional policemen had been stationed at relief headquarters in anticipation of trouble and that the actual disorder started when an unidentified man grabbed a pistol from a policeman's holster and fired at the officers.

Other shots were fired and in the exchange of shots two persons were killed and four were wounded.

Death For Murderer

Orders Jackson Jury

JACKSON, O., July 13.—Herbert Thacker, 21, was convicted of murder in the first degree with-out recommendation for mercy, Thursday, by a jury in Jackson-co. common pleas court. He was charged with killing Stephen Huntley, 74-year-old farmer. Death in the electric chair is mandatory.

Ray Freeman, alleged accomplice of Thacker, is next to go on trial.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Miss Winifred Dumm, of Amanda, underwent a major operation at the hospital Friday.

Charles Jewell, Lancaster-pk, is recovering in Grant hospital, Columbus, after undergoing a major operation this week.

STRIKE GRASPS WEST COAST

Fear Entire Coast to Suffer as General Walk-Out Looms; Many Unions to Join.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Organized labor today was unsheathing its sharpest and most terrifying weapon—the general strike—to be plunged into the economic and industrial heart of the golden Pacific coast.

From the populous San Francisco bay region, already suffering acutely, the threat of a general strike—the walkout of all union labor—today, had spread the length of the coast as an aftermath of the maritime strike which has all but paralyzed coast shipping for 65 days.

CITIES TO SUFFER

It was the opinion of observers here that only a settlement of the waterfront strike can avert the calling out of a general strike around San Francisco bay—involving among others the cities of San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and Piedmont—and the probable spreading then of the disastrous tieup of the rest of the coast, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Los Angeles and San Diego.

On strike now on the coast are 20,000 marine workers. Added to these in the San Francisco bay area are teamsters, wholesale butchers, cleaners and dyers and chauffeurs for a total of 8,000. And going on strike in this vicinity tonight or tomorrow are 5,000 laundry workers, laundry drivers, retail delivery drivers and more butchers.

And in the background, ready to join the great strike at the command of their leaders, are 110,000 more workers around here. And their leaders are meeting today with indications that they will order the general strike—unless the waterfront employers give in and settle the marine walkout.

Killer, 19, Dies, Victim of Gas

George Shaughnessy Holds Crucifix in One Hand, Telegram From Mother in Other as Fumes Envelop Him; Slew Automobile Salesman.

Saughnessy, who spent his 19th birthday in condemned row of the prison only a few weeks ago, forfeited his life for the brutal slaying of Lon Blankenship, Tucson automobile salesman, whom he shot to death one year ago tomorrow in Nogales, during a hold-up.

FOLLOWED MEXICAN

Clad only in a pair of shorts Shaughnessy was strapped into the death chair, which exactly seven days ago to the minute held the body of Manuel Hernandez, young brother of two Mexicans executed for a similar crime.

Doomed Boys Denied Operation

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Orley Judy, of Laurelville, announce the birth of a daughter at Berger hospital, Friday, July 13.

SUIT FOLLOWS BOY'S DEATH

Paul Good, Adelphi, Made Defendant by Alfred Dunkle of Hallsville.

CHILLICOTHE, July 13.—Paul Good, Adelphi, was named defendant in a $15,000 damage suit instituted against him in common pleas court Wednesday by Alfred Dunkle, Hallsville, as administrator of the estate of Harry Dunkle, 11, deceased son of the petitioner. The suit is brought on behalf of the boy's parents, Alfred Dunkle, 54, and Mary Dunkle, 37.

The suit arises out of the boy's death from injuries received June 1, 1934, when he was struck by Good's automobile on Route 180 through Hallsville.

The plaintiff claims that about 1:30 p. m. on the date, the boy was crossing from the north to the south side of the highway in the village when Good's car, being operated at 40 miles an hour and out of control so far as preventing the accident was concerned, struck and fatally injured the boy. The petition charges Good with careless, negligent and reckless operation in the speed of the car, failing to have it under control so as to avert the accident, and in failing to give warning of approach.

Most of the injured were elderly women. Mrs. Anna Miller, of Bethesda, was the most seriously hurt. She suffered a broken back and may die. Others hurt include Mrs. Harry Boyd, of Cambridge; Mrs. Jessie Graham, of Wheeling; Mrs. Martha Graham, of Wheeling; Mrs. Harry Cunningham, of Steubenville; Mrs. Ona Tarmeter, of Steubenville; Mrs. George Carroll, of Wheeling; Mrs. Eva Woodcock, of Wheeling; and Mrs. A. W. Pamply, of Wheeling.

INGALLS GIVES MORGAN HELP, RACE IS "HOT"

Many Developments Seen as Last Month of Campaign Nears

COLUMBUS, July 13.—With senatorial candidates firing blasts at each other and with gubernatorial hopefuls bringing forth their endorsements, the Ohio political race will enter the last month of the pre-primary campaign to-morrow.

Interest in the mad and exciting scramble for public office was heightened over night by the activities of the senatorial candidates and the announcement that David S. Ingalls would support Daniel Morgan as the Republican choice for governor.

U. S. Sen. Simeon D. Fess, seeking re-nomination in the Republican ticket, attacked the Roosevelt administration; Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wanamaker, of Akron, one of his opponents, attacked Fess; Rep. Charles West, the so-called "New Deal" Democratic candidate, attacked the Republican party and John Vorys, another Republican candidate for the same office, also had a word to say.

HUNT MAN AS CHILD 2, IS GONE

Demented Man Seen in New York Town May Have Abducted Boy

SEARCH UNDERWAY

Father Swears Vengeance if Man is Found

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 13.—With fears he had been kidnapped growing by the hour, a new and intensive search was launched today for Robert Connor, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connor, mysteriously missing from his home in this exclusive section of Westchester since yesterday evening.

Squads of Boy Scouts joined the hunt as a nightlong search of heavily wooded territory near the infant's home proved fruitless.

His parents at first believed the child merely had wandered away from home and was lost in the woods nearby, but as the hours dragged by with the worst of the searching groups, their fear that he had been abducted grew swiftly.

PEDDLER SOUGHT

State police, while refraining from definite adoption of the kidnapping theory, sent out a tall order for a "demented peddler" seen in the vicinity of the Connor home during the past few days.

The peddler was described as being about 40 years old, apparently well educated but believed mentally incapacitated.

Neighbors said he had been seen conversing with children near the Connor home and that he had talked vaguely of being a count and possessing castles.

Searchers were weighing the advisability of appealing for a pack of bloodhounds to aid in the search for the missing infant. Two dogs, one a shepherd trained in police work, the other a hunting hound with a bloodhound strain, were used by searching parties last night but lost the scent of the boy, obtained from his bedclothing, a short distance from his home.

PLAYING IN YARD

Robert was last seen, his parents said, playing in a sandpile with a neighbor's child, Ruth Schwagerman. The girl went to her home for supper about 6 o'clock last evening, leaving Robert at the sandpile. A short time later, Connor went in search of his son but found no trace of him.

Connor, father of the boy and a civil engineer employed by the state insurance department, was haggard and weary as he sat at home receiving reports from police and the searching parties.

Up to noon, no trace of the boy had been found and no demand for ransom had been presented.

"Would you pay a ransom?" Connor was asked.

"Where would I get it?" he asked wearily. "I'd do anything to get the boy back but I have only a small salary from my job."

"If anything has happened to Bobby—well, wait until I catch the man who did it."

Given Oil Team Wins 1-0 Duel From Straw-board 9

A single run scored in the seventh inning when they bunched three of their four hits gave the Given Oils, fast-improving colored football team, a well-earned 1-0 victory over the Container Corporation.

Bob Jones on the mound for the Given Oils gave four hits and walked two. At crucial points in the game he slipped through strikeouts and during the nine innings gathered eight. The most important strikeout of the bunch came in the ninth frame with the tying run on third base and two out. Rich Smalley, late of the McClarren Meats, was at bat and had two strikes and two balls on him. Jones winged the next ball plateward and in Smalley's excitement caused by the tenseness of the moment he swung at a ball that was high and outside. It would have been ball three.

DROPPED BALL DOES IT

Al Baker, new addition to the C. C. of A. squad, was on the mound for the losers. His left hand tossed limited the Given Oils to three bingles but as said before, three of them came together. Regardless of the three hits the Oils wouldn't have scored but for an infield error.

Neither team had been able to dent the plate in the first six frames and the straw-board had been easy in its half of the seventh. Then came the Given half of the frame.

House Hill, first man up, singled sharply to center field. Bob Jones, a single through the infield but Don Johnson forced Hill at third. Baker to G. Brungs. Alfred Jones singled sharply into center field but Watson's fast return of the ball kept Bob Jones from trying for home. The sacks were loaded with one out. The infield was drawn in and Lewis drove a ball straight to Stevens at short. With a certain force at the plate and a possible double play at first base, Stevens dropped the ball as he started to throw it.

Home Town Honors Native Sons

Citizens of North Brookfield, Mass., turned out en masse to honor two of their native sons, Connie Mack, the celebrated baseball manager, and George M. The occasion called for the pair to play some baseball so Cohan took the bat while Mack did the catching.

Although he was able to retrieve the leather in time to force Johnson at third, Jones scored what proved to be the winning run.

ONLY SCORING CHANCE

The Given Oils were able to put

only one other man on third base during the game that being Hoston who took second on Stevens' low throw to first base in the sixth session. He died on the look-in corner.

The straw-board had runners die on third, and second in the fourth frame when Smalley grounded out for the third out. Another threat was wasted in the fifth when Strawser took second on Don Johnson's miff of his pop in short left field. Jones reached his highest peak of the game in the seventh frame when he forced Smalley and Strawser to pop to him and Baker to miss the third strike after Walter Brungs had opened the inning with a single through Johnson.

The game was nip and tuck with efficient umpiring having an important part in it. There was no kick on any decision either on balls and strikes or on plays at bases (that is no kicks except from a few constant "criers" who wouldn't like it even if it was good). The defeat of the straw-board makes its second in a row after finishing the first half undefeated. Manager Norris used a juggled lineup for the fray with Beatty playing second base, Smalley left field, and Baker in the box. The Given lineup was the same as it has been all year.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 13.—The Columbus Red Birds, who regained their stride and made it two in a row over St. Paul by their victory yesterday, tackled the Apostles again today. Effective pitching by Bud Teachout aided the Birds in their 8-10-4 win yesterday. The Columbus club now is only one game behind Indianapolis, the second-place team in the spirited American Association fight.

The first-place Minneapolis Millers, who smothered Toledo 13 to 8 yesterday for their fifth straight win, today faced the Mud-hens again.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

FOR DOWNRIGHT FIGHT, determination, sticktiveness, and team spirit there isn't a team in the softball league that can compare with the Given Oils. That outfit was the door-mat of the league until the final stages of the first half, but right now that team is plenty tough—Bob Jones is pitching splendid ball and his mates are playing plenty of ball behind him. It took the Eshelman outfit 19 innings to beat the team and it whipped the straw-board, so mark in your little green book right now that the Given Oils will be contenders when the final gun is sounded.

The Circleville Oils, out of action for two weeks because of rain, will get plenty of work next week unless rain again interferes. The team is booked with the Circle City dairy Monday and with the Eshelman Feeds on Friday in a tilt postponed from this week. An effort is being made to transfer the Circleville Oil-Purina Chow game to next Thursday, that date being vacated by the Mecca-Container Corporation game since several Mecca boys will be in the O. N. G. camp.

Other games on next week's schedule are:
Tuesday, Given Oils vs. McClarren meats;
Wednesday, Eshelman Feeds vs. Purina Chows.

DETROIT WINS LEAD IN LOOP

Cochrane's Men Knock Off Yankees and Stop Broaca's Streak.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Whatever thoughts New York fans had concerning a nickle world's series this October were somewhat huddled today following changes in the standings which ousted the Yankees from the top of the American league and saw another cut seriously into the slim lead of the Giants in the National.

The supple arm of Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit pitcher, blasted the Yankees from the top and with the same sweeping motion moved the Tigers into the lead. Rowe, pitching the best game of his career, fanned 11 of the slugging Yankees to pull out a 4 to 2 victory and at the same time snap the four game winning streak of his rival, young Johnny Broaca.

Excellent work in the field and with the bat gave Rowe all the support in the world when he needed it and the game was typical of the spirit Manager Mickey Cochrane has instilled into the Tigers this year. They have been a fighting, clawing team and one that gives Detroit its first potential pennant champion since the days of 1924 and Ty Cobb.

The Giants saw their leadership whittled a full game when they split a doubleheader with the Pirates while the Chicago Cubs were defeating the Boston Braves, 7-4. The Giants now are but a half game ahead of the Cubs where they were one and one half games ahead yesterday.

state, announced that Walter G. Nichols, of New Philadelphia, will be chairman of his state campaign committee, and Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, won the endorsement of the Legislature. Frazier Reams, prominent Toledo Democrat.

Sen. Feas, speaking at a Republican rally at McConnellsville which sent a message of greetings to former President Herbert Hoover, said that President Franklin D. Roosevelt must reverse his program to lead the country out of the depression.

"We will never get anywhere until the profit motive is restored to business and the business man will employ labor," he declared. "If President Roosevelt doesn't reverse his program, we will reverse it for him this fall."

Judge Wanamaker issued a statement saying:

"I am opposed to Sen. Feas because I believe him to be the most conservative and reactionary member of the Republican party in the U. S. senate."

Candidate Vorys had this to say: "In serious times like these, we need thoughtful, constructive suggestions and criticisms and not mere fault finding and attacks on personalities."

Meanwhile, Rep. West, speaking at Youngstown, told his hearers: "What has the New Deal done for Ohio? Recovery agencies have brought more than $750,000,000 to this state."

He accepted the challenge of the Henry P. Fletcher to make the New Deal the pivotal issue of the forthcoming election and declared he intended to do some challenging himself.

Providing he wins the nomination, West pledged himself to challenge the Republican nominee to a series of debates on the New Deal.

CANDIDATE OF "GANG"
Meanwhile, former Governor Vic Mahoney, one of West's opponents, charged in a statement that West was not the "New Deal candidate" but the candidate of Ohio's Democratic gang.

At Lorain, C. Nelson Sparks, Akron, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, ripped into alleged extravagance of the Democratic administration and said he would abolish the state aeronautical department if elected governor.

"What in the name of high heaven," he demanded, "do we need with an aeronautical department?"

These were but the highlights of the merry political race over night. During the next 30 days, until the primaries August 14, the events will come in an even swifter parade. Whatever the result, they promise one of the most exciting pre-primary campaigns in Ohio's history.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THEY tell great stories in books and papers about tenderfoot guys that came out west and got thrown off horses. Seems like there ain't anything funnier than getting thrown off a horse, if the guy that gets bumped is a tenderfoot from the east, according to these rare writers of books and things. Now I never could see much fun in anybody getting thrown off a horse. It really ain't as much sport as you might think, even for a salesman from the east. And, as a matter of fact, no cow man with any sense would let a tenderfoot climb up on a real bad pony. These cowpunchers don't like funerals half as well as a lot of fiction writers think they do.

Well, one of these tales that I heard was about a fellow from New York that landed on a ranch down in Texas, and he was kinda smart about it, so the boys found him a right bad little pony, and was inviting him to get on and take a little canter out to see the cows.

"I don't want to get on so very bad," says the guy from New York. "If I thought the pony was a going to kick or anything, I'd just walk over, because I don't mind walking. You know this is my first attempt to ride."

"Don't mind that a bit, Bud," says the rough guy, "because this here pony ain't got a thing on you. It's his first attempt at being rode, too. You can both start out together and learn."

CORN AND HOG CHECKS TO BE IN MAIL SOON

Reach Farmers by August 15
Belief; One Ohio County
Receives Sum.

With more than one-third of all county corn-hog allotment committees authorized to prepare regular contracts for the final signatures of producers, distributed among corn-hog farmers or approximately $130,000,000 in first installment corn-hog checks is expected to be near the peak load by late July or early August, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today.

The approximately 1,200,000 contracts are of two types. One includes a rider signed by the producer, agreeing to accept necessary adjustment in the production figures on which the payment is based, and entitling him to receive the payment before the adjustment is made. First installments on 84,253 contracts of this type had been paid through July 9.

The second or "regular" contract must be signed twice by the producer, once before adjustment is made in the figures, and again when the final adjustment has been made and the amount definitely determined. On July 9 first installment payments on 36,124 contracts of this type had been made. Allotment committees in 754 of the 2068 counties participating in the corn-hog program are finishing or have already finished the routine work of typing adjusted figures into the "regular" contract forms and obtaining the producers' second signatures. States farthest advanced with this work are Alabama, California, Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Virginia and Washington. Adjustment of contract figures in over 90 per cent of the participating Ohio counties has been completed and contracts from over 40 counties are on the way to the Administration offices in Washington, D. C. Good progress is reported from other states, including the Corn Belt states of Kansas, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska and South Dakota.

STATES LISTED

Disbursement on first installment corn-hog adjustment payment checks through July 9 total $7,702,070.45. The amounts paid by states are: Alabama, $13,350.05; Arkansas, $677.20; Indiana, $68,239.25; Iowa, $5,212,315.70; Maryland, $2,636.00; Michigan, $680.00; Minnesota, $1,039,595.70; Missouri, $975,178.70; Nebraska, $23,964.00; Nevada, $16,480.00; Ohio, $28,627.05; South Dakota, $99,262.20; Virginia, $2,230.35; Washington, $85,079.50; West Virginia, $8,557.20; Wisconsin, $125,197.55. The total disbursements through July 9 represent payments on 84,253 early payment contracts to producers in 296 counties, and on 36,124 regular payment contracts in 112 counties.

Tender plants usually thrive better on the north side of the house than on the hot south side. Couldn't it be a news picture and still not catch the great man in a pose that makes him look silly?

Efficient Arrangement of Kitchen Essential Says Mrs. George Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

Just how important can efficient arrangement of equipment and facilities be in the kitchen? A woman I know was observed while she was making a cake. It required fifty processes and one hundred and forty steps. Her kitchen was then rearranged by an expert in space saving and the same cake was made by the same woman, under the same conditions—this time, however, it required only twenty-four processes and twenty-four steps. The cake was made with just half the work, and with one-sixth the many steps.

Our first consideration in modernizing the kitchen workshop is to arrange the equipment in logical order for continuous, straight-line flow of material. This means that the refrigerator should be nearest the food delivery door, because there is where all perishable foods are stored.

Next in line in the ideal kitchen should be a counter work surface, next to the refrigerator, for cold food preparation. The wall cabinets over and the floor cabinet equipped with the implements that are used in the preparation of cold foods, such as salads, desserts, refreshments, etc. Even the location of all the tools can be studied to minimize the amount of reaching or lifting.

The Sink and Counters

Next in line is the clean-up counter, of course consisting of a sink (and an automatic electric dishwasher if possible). Dishes, pans, bowls, forks, and all utensils soiled at the adjacent counter can be placed on the clean-up counter without moving.

Then comes the hot food preparation counter. Food that is going to be cooked must first be made ready—and requires certain items of equipment, all of which are conveniently located in the upper and lower cabinets, right within reach. When food is ready to cook you don't want to walk back across the kitchen. Therefore, next in line is the range. It also may be equipped with adjacent wall and floor cabinets, efficiently equipped. These hold all accessories likely to be needed at the range. The range is closest to the service door to the dining room. Thus you will see that straight-line production can reduce processes and motions to a minimum. It saves steps, saves labor, speeds the flow of work, brings about greater efficiency and adds greater convenience and comfort to the housewife.

Working Surfaces and Walls

With this much accomplished the next essential is to make the kitchen lovely cheerful, inspiring. For it is a woman's workshop, and should have these feminine qualities to which wives and mothers are entitled while at their work. This is done with color and in the selection of easily cleaned wall and floor materials. Tile, paint and washable papers for the former; linoleum for the latter.

Cleaning difficulties are simplified by "coating" the base. The linoleum floor continues unbroken up into this coating. There is no crack or angle to clean. You can clean this area just like the floor; in fact it is a part of the floor. It makes for greater ease, greater speed, no banging and marring of furniture, no bruised knuckles. You can stand right up to the work surfaces, lean against them in fact, for this cut-away section provides ample toe room. It protects shoes and the finish of the base cabinets, too. Any linoleum floor can have the kitchen floor laid this way.

In addition to the cheerful general illumination of the entire kitchen provided by a central ceiling light, light should be provided for your convenience right over the working surfaces where you prepare food—and over the clean-up counter where you wash vegetables, pans and dishes. With this flood of rightly-placed light it becomes easy to get every last trace of dirt out of the celery, every last grain of sand out of the spinach. Seeing is made easy, eye-strain prevented.

Look at your own kitchen. Perhaps it can be re-arranged along the stream-line plan of work without spending money, perhaps you need a new work table or two. A new cabinet or some other piece of equipment. And those extra lights! They will help right away.

MRS. GEORGE O. THURN.

First Aids For Housekeeping

The much discussed cocktail shaker of pre-repeal days may play an appreciated part in the dry household, for the mixing of summer beverages. For instance, iced coffee is never so delicious as when shaken with the cream and ice; use one half cup cream to three cups strong, freshly made coffee; add a few ice cubes to the shaker, and shake vigorously until the shaker is frosted. Pour at once into tall glasses. Chocolate makes a good addition to this; add one third as much cocoa (made as for beverage) as coffee; the same proportion of cream, and plenty of ice. Use the same shaker for blending fruit juices.

If the bread board slips when used on the enamel top kitchen table try pushing four flat rubber-tipped tacks into it, one at each corner of the underside. Such tacks are to be found at the five-and-ten cent stores, the hardware stores and elsewhere, for use in chair legs.

Buy frilled paper cups for use in the freezing compartments of the refrigerator. This makes the mousings and ice creams in individual portions and at the same time saves washing the drawer.

Washing a rug at home? If it's an Oriental or other non-fading rug, spread it on a flat table, outdoors, but not in the sun. Make a large pan of clean soapsuds, using hot water and pure soap; use a clean, small scrub brush, and scrub gently, using a circular motion, a little area at a time. Use plenty of suds; proceed until the whole rug has been scrubbed; then use a clean sponge and clean warm water and sponge off the suds, using a circular motion, and covering only a small area at a time.

Repeat the sponging with clear, warm water until all traces of suds have disappeared, and the sponge water stays clear. Dry by spreading on clean papers on the grass, but not in a sunny spot. Air for several days; do not beat, shake too vigorously, or hang over a line. This is the process followed in the hand "shampooing" of fine Oriental rugs by experts.

BAN FORMAL CLOTHES

NUERNBERG, Germany.—Participants in the Fourth Annual Saengerfest here have been advised that only street clothes may be worn, tuxedos and evening clothes being barred even for the orchestra and the directors. Those in charge of the annual singing festival have asked that members of the various clubs participating wear blue suits or ordinary dark street clothes.

Yet it seems unfair to immortalize the old oaken bucket and say nothing for the Mason fruit jar.

Want to Make Watermelon Salad?

This may serve as an appetizer or a salad. Have the melon icy cold and all other ingredients cold. With a vegetable cutter, cut balls from the melon, which should be very ripe and have a good color. Remove seeds carefully. Put the balls back in the refrigerator to chill while the plates are arranged. On each place a nest of cleaned, chilled watercress. Arrange the watermelon balls, garnish with a sprig of mint, and dress with chilled French dressing.

BUNCH OF GRAPES SALAD

Six halves canned pears; one pound green or red grapes; one package cream cheese; one fourth cup nut meats; one half cup mayonnaise. Drain the chilled pears thoroughly; turn upside down in crisp, cold lettuce each half pear over a spoonful of mayonnaise mixed with nuts; spread the rounded side of the pears with cream cheese; then lay on this halves of red or green grapes from which seeds are removed. Insert to represent a stem, a mint stem with leaves removed. Pour a very little French dressing over all.

CANTALOUPE SALAD

Three cantaloupes; three table spoons green mint cherries; three tablespoons French dressing made with orange juice in place of vinegar.

Scoop out the cantaloupes with a ball cutter; chill thoroughly, then arrange in a crisp lettuce leaf, sprinkle with French dressing then with the finely chopped mint cherries. Serve very cold.

CHEESE AND JELLY SALAD

Two packages cream cheese; one half cup chopped pecans; glass of currant jelly. Mayonnaise. Mash the cheese and mix to a paste with mayonnaise. Add the nuts. Mix well. Line small fancy moulds, or gem pans with the mixture then fill the cavity with the jelly. Cover this with more of the cheese mixture. Chill thoroughly. Remove from the moulds. Arrange on crisp hearts of lettuce and serve with a snappy French dressing made by adding a little tomato ketchup and Worcestershire to the regular French dressing recipe.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can usually get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Depositors Get Money

THE fact that the new federal law guaranteeing bank deposits has received its first application directs attention anew to this act, passed as part of the program to restore public confidence in the nation's bank.

Depositors in the closed Fond du Lac state bank at East Peoria, Ill., have received from the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation checks covering their deposits.

The insurance law has been in operation only six months. During this period, however, only two insured banks have failed. In the 10 years from 1923 to 1932, the average number of bank failures for the first 6 months of each year was 447.

The deposit-guarantee law was only one of several steps taken by the government to cure a condition that threatened complete collapse of the banking system. Public confidence had been undermined by the increasing number of bank failures. Heroic treatment of the situation was seen to be an urgent need.

The insurance plan was projected in an effort to meet this. It represented what many bankers and others regarded as a radical move. Guarantees of bank deposits had been tried in one or two western states with disastrous results.
The same fate was believed by some to await it if attempted on a national scale by the federal government.

These fears to date have been unjustified. The law has helped to restore public confidence in banks, which is an important element in the soundness of any banking system. It, therefore, is deserving of credit.

All you need to fight the wicked rich without danger to yourself is courage and a nice fortune.

Work For Prisoners

SOLUTION of a troublesome prison problem is provided in the Tarver bill, recently signed by the president. The measure not only seeks to provide useful employment for federal prisoners
but to give them training in trades that will be useful to them after they are released.

It removed restrictions that had prevented the working of inmates,
yet, in the opinion of the president, will make for no important competition with private industry or labor. The plan is to be worked out in detail by a government corporation. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the belief that it offered
"a practical substitute for criminal methods of earning one's livelihood."

The new law, of course, does not help states in solving the problem of giving their prisoners employment. This problem will become more or less acute next January when the federal labor bill passed several years ago becomes effective. Under it, prison-manufactured goods are barred from interstate commerce. After it goes into effect, a state will have to maintain its convicts in idleness or put them to work producing supplies for its own use.

An increase in June marriages is reported from many parts of the country, this being interpreted as an indication of returning prosperity. Let us hope prosperity lasts longer than most of the marriages are likely to do.

Alas! No man can look as important as Junior wishes. Dad to seem when the fellers are watching.

member of the public we vote "no."

THE LONE WOLF'S SON

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS
Aboard the S.S. "Navarre," bound for New York, Michael Lanyard, reformed "Lone Wolf" and underworld celebrity, is reunited with his son whom he thought dead. The boy, "Maurice Parry," has followed in the "Lone Wolf's" footsteps, but Lanyard hopes his son's interest in Fanno Crozier, lovely daughter of the wealthy Mrs. Fay Crozier, will prove a good influence. Maurice steals Mrs. Crozier's Habsburg emeralds.
Lanyard retrieves them for Fay.
Detective Crane warns Lanyard to watch out for the vengeance of
"Jack Knife" Anderson and "English Archie," two gunmen whom Lanyard exposed for cheating Maurice at cards. Shortly afterwards, the gangsters steal Mrs.
Crozier's emeralds and plant them in Lanyard's cabin. Maurice saves his father by substituting imitations and secretly placing the em-eralds in the purser's care for Fay.
Notwithstanding Lanyard's innocence, Detective Plon is suspicious of him. Later, when one of "Jack Knife's" accomplices tries to intimidate Lanyard into stealing the emeralds and splitting fifty-fifty with the gang, Maurice appears on the scene, masked. He knocks the gangster unconscious, planting a string of pearls stolen from the notorious gold-digger, Tess Boyce, in the thug's pocket. Tess, in gratitude to Maurice for catching the thief, gives a dinner in his honor.
Lanyard disapproves of the society of Tess Boyce for her son, but Fanno asks him to leave Maurice to her. Discussing the Boyce robbery, Plon informs Lanyard that the prisoner swore Lanyard and Maurice planted the necklace on him. M. Isquith, Tess' companion, compliments her on her progress with Maurice and Lanyard adding that "they will have them where they want them." Crane is suspicious of Tess' interest in Maurice.
He surmises the truth about the Boyce robbery. Crane overhears
Tess tell Maurice that Lanyard's reform was just elocution. The detective warns Lanyard to keep his son away from her. Fearing another attempt will be made to steal
the emeralds, Lanyard advises Fay to arrange for their protection
when the boat docks.

CHAPTER XXIII.
"But I supposed—of course!—
that the Boyce burglar was the same one who had robbed me, and once he was arrested, that was the end of that."
"He was in all likelihood a simple card-hound, for the brains that planned the business. You must understand, madame, criminals of his class are seldom more than instruments doing the bidding of intelligences too clever ever to show their own hands."
"You do alarm me," Fay Crozier replied. "What do you advise?"
"Instruct M. Crozier by wireless to have some safe-deposit company meet the Navarre with an armored car, take charge of the emeralds and store them in its vaults till you wish to wear them."
"What a head!" Fay Crozier cried, beaming. "What a master crime lost when the Lone Wolf returned on his honors!"
"Then you will—"
"I am most happy to believe it."
With this Lanyard rose. Fanno, all aglow, if only from walking,
and somewhat prettier than he had ever seen her, was approaching with Maurice, who it wasn't possible to overlook, likewise wore a deeply contented expression.
"So there you are!" Fay Crozier snapped. "I should think you'd be ashamed to come back from exercising looking like that, and putting your poor old mother in the wrong. In my time children had some consideration for their elders."
"Young man, your father's been asking for you."
"I called on him three times in his cabin this morning. That is,
I tried to, but each time the steward told me he had not yet rung for his coffee."
"We've been watching them get the mail plane ready for its takeoff," Fanno put in. "It's terribly interesting."

"When do they launch it, child?"
"Sometime this afternoon. Think it will be in New York by nightfall!
And this pesty ship not till late tomorrow. The pilot says there's room for two passengers. I should simply adore the experience."
"Should you?" Fay asked in an absent-minded voice.
"Wouldn't you, Mother? Why not? What an adventure!"
"I have a message for you, my father," Maurice reported, "or an invitation, I should say, from Madame Boyce. She wants to know if you will lunch with her and M. Isquith and the Rajah today, and afterwards play contract. They wanted me to give them their revenge—the cards ran large for me last night, but I had to beg off. I was this afternoon because I'm giving Fanno luncheon."
"In that event," Lanyard, with a lightened heart, gave his shoulders a whimsical lift,—"how can I refuse?"
"My dear Lanyard!" Fay Crozier remonstrated. "After all! Of course, we mustn't judge Maurice harshly, he's so young and inexperienced; but you are a man of the world—you owe your self-respect something."
"Ah, but seriously, madame: seeing that it's the honor of family, in a sense, that my son won heavily last night—"
"And that you're an incurable card-hound, and a bid to a bridge-party to you is the same as smoke of battle to an old war-horse—all the same, I must say I don't just see you slumming!"
Lanyard on his part perceived,
at the outset of that afternoon at cards, no reason to regret his response to Maurice, but his old inclination was glad to think—that recalling the light in Fanno's eyes that morning, the shine of his son's he could hardly be blamed for believing—that the girl was making famous progress in her campaign to "save" Maurice, but his old inclination with the game quickened to the discovery that he was pitting his skill against cardmen worthy of his metal.
Of the four, Tess Boyce was the poorest player, although by no means to be despised, whether as partner or antagonist. Isquith, preserving his politician pose whether winning or losing, played with a cool-headed precision rarely met with outside the ranks of experts;
in all the sitting Lanyard failed to see him fumble once or make a sin-luctant swing from auction to contract, at a stage of retarded development.

But the best of cardmen could have made little of the hands the Rajah held. The ill run of luck that this afternoon befell Lanyard today stood by him. Lanyard soon reconciled to the prospect of losing a rubber when the cut for partners gave him the Rajah. His own cards were nothing to crow about, even though strong enough for all that, to enable him to hold his own and now and then score a gain. He was playing for the least stake at the table, a quarter a point.
The others, making their half a dollar a point at the outset, and carrying Lanyard, when they cut him, for the extra quarter, doubled their stakes at the Rajah's suggestion when he had lost his third rubber and, again at his suggestion, toward the end of the sitting, jumped to two dollars a point. Like many of his race, a passionate gambler, he was a poor loser. At first morse, he grew sullen, and toward the end angry. Many thousands down and still holding wretched cards, he cut for the last rubber in a temper that lent the atmosphere
a tension distinctly unpleasant.
"I will make you a sporting offer,
madame," he said to Tess Boyce, who was Lanyard's partner, while she was dealing the first round: "a pound a point—I should say, five dollars."
"Not this baby!" Tess shook her flame-colored tresses, laughing. "I haven't got the wealth of the Indies to back me. Tell you what I will do, though." She dealt the last card,
and signed to the others to put off
picking up their hands. "I'm mad about that stone in my enameled fingernail tapped a pigeon-blood ruby on the dark, small, royal hand."
"I'll play you for that. What do you say? I'll bet everything you have lost today, to me, to Mr. Isquith and to M. Lanyard too, against that ring."

AT THE GRAND

Bradley Page, who portrays
"The Cougar" in the new Buck Jones Columbia film, "The Fighting Ranger" coming to the Grand Theatre, is becoming one of the most sought-after "heavy" men on the screen today.
Although he has been in pictures only two years, he has created enough of an impression during that time to warrant a brilliant screen future.

It seems now that villainous
France staged all those executions in Germany despite all Hitler could do to repel the foe.

Radium Aids In Cure of 'Leukemia'

Disease of the Blood Responds to This Form of Treatment

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

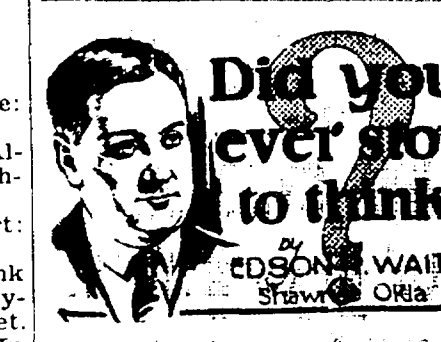

NUMEROUS ANNOUNCEMENTS
have been appearing in the newspapers recently of a curable disease called "leukemia." I have received several requests for information about this disease.
Contrary to the popular belief,
this disease is not a new or strange affliction of mankind, but has been recognized for many years. In spite of marked progress of medical science, the actual cause of this disturbance has never been discovered.

The disease was formerly regarded as almost certain to be fatal. But there are certain forms of this affection that respond to treatment.
There are three chief varieties of leukemia. These are given by names —"acute leukemia," "chronic myelo-genous leukemia" and "chronic lymphatic leukemia." The acute form is the most severe and at present little can be done for this serious affection. In the type of anemia there is a marked and sudden increase in the number of certain white blood cells, the disease leading to severe damage to the system.

As a rule, acute leukemia occurs
in individuals under twenty-five years of age. The attack often follows a simple infection, such as tonsillitis or a boil.
Use of Radium
Chronic leukemia comes on slowly.
The victim suffers from exhaustion and bleeding perhaps. Due to low resistance and the general weakness caused by the anemia these sufferers are extremely susceptible to the common infectious or "catching" diseases.
The chronic form of myelogenous leukemia is met between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five.
Chronic lymphatic leukemia attacks older persons, usually between forty-five and sixty years. But there is no definite age limitation.
I am often asked what is the best treatment for leukemia. This depends entirely upon the type, the age of the patient, and the extent of the disease. Within recent years beneficial results have been obtained by the expert application of radium over the region of the spleen.
When radium is not available,
beneficial results are often obtained by the use of X-ray treatments. In certain cases improvement has followed the administration of a drug called benzol. This is given in capsules, but can only be prescribed by the physician in charge of the case.
Transfusions of blood from healthy persons are of value in strengthening the sufferer and preventing fatal complications. It is often necessary to repeat this procedure.

Answers to Health Queries

M. O. Q.—Is yeast fattening if taken twice daily?
A.—Yeast in itself is not fattening.
It is usually taken to aid the elimination and keep the system clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.
Mrs. L. O. M. Q.—I had X-ray pictures taken which showed ulcers of the duodenum. What would you advise?
A.—Doubtless your doctor has advised you exactly what to do. Diet is important.

Did you ever stop to think?
EDSON WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

One of the principal occupations of the chronic faultfinder is to criticize the newspapers. They find fault with the newspapers, even though they are asking for and receiving favors from them
at the same time.
Telling the owners how to run them is a favorite hobby with them.
In spite of the fact that newspapers are great community leaders, in spite of the fact that they have done more than anyone else for the betterment of the home city, in spite of the fact that they are day by day fighting the battles of the home city and that they are the ones who make a city progress faster, in spite of the fact that if they were not there fighting the city would move back so fast that in a short time there would be no city, people continue to find fault with them.
No newspaper can please all the people all the time.
Nothing can please all the people in any city. Every city has a few people who make it a business to like nothing that is done by the progressive people; they are just natural born kickers. To ignore them is the best policy.
Newspapers are business institutions; some people think they are charitable institutions, while others think the publishers run them for the pleasure they get out of it.

King Andrew
Some people thought that Andy Mellon, Aluminum King of America, was a potent influence in the Harding Coolidge-Hoover Administrations.

Unquestionably he was. But his influence has not waned. It is just as strong under Roosevelt.

Take the case of the NRA code for the aluminum industry. It is a story every housewife should know.

Just one year ago, the Mellon Aluminum company, which controls raw aluminum, proposed a code to General Johnson. Parts of it were opposed by the small manufacturers of pots and pans.

They have to buy raw aluminum from Mellon. So they proposed:

1. That the Mellon giant be required to charge its fabricating subsidiaries the same price for raw materials that it charged competitors.

2. That the Mellon subsidiaries not be permitted to sell their pots and pans at cut-throat prices.

For eleven months the battle raged. No other code consumed half so much time. Finally, just a few days ago, the Blue Eagle hatched the aluminum egg.

It was an added product. Point No. 1 was granted. Mellon's firm was required to charge the same price to its own subsidiaries as to competitors.

But Point No. 2 was not. There was no provision that the Mellon trust could not cut prices under the little fellows.

Also General Johnson declared the code only "provisional" that it would operate for 90 days during which time he would "investigate" the "past practices" of the industry—meaning the Aluminum Company of America.

The independent pots-and-pans producers shrieked betrayal, charged that it was merely a dodge.

Veteran German Leader Ill

President von Hindenburg

Here is a recent photo of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany, who has been reported gravely ill, while his country seethes in turmoil and bloodshed as a result of the quelling of an uprising in the Nazi party.

Federal Trade Commission, they kept it out of the mails. Conditions under which negroes were employed in Mississippi levee work—once a national scandal—have now improved.

The American Embassy in Berlin has reason to doubt that the telegrams allegedly by Hindenburg. Brazil has flung Hitler just at the height of the latter's "purging" ever were seen by Hindenburg.

Brazil has finally sent an efficient envoy to the United States. He is charming charge d'affaires Cyro De Freitas Valle. His colleagues resent the fact that he gets to work before noon.

Merry-Go-Round
Simultaneous with Roosevelt's visit in the Virgin Islands, native high school teachers were using Mrs. Roosevelt's book, "It's Up to the Women", to make three meals for six people at a cost of $1.

Claude Cockburn, descendant of the British Admiral who landed in Washington in 1814 and burned the Capitol, is now publishing one of the most caustic publications in Great Britain. It is so critical of the Tory Government, that British officials, supposed to hold sacred the right of free speech, for a time kept it out of the mails. Conditions under which negroes were employed in Mississippi levee work—once a national scandal—have now improved.

The American Embassy in Berlin has reason to doubt that the telegrams allegedly by Hindenburg. Brazil has flung Hitler just at the height of the latter's "purging" ever were seen by Hindenburg.

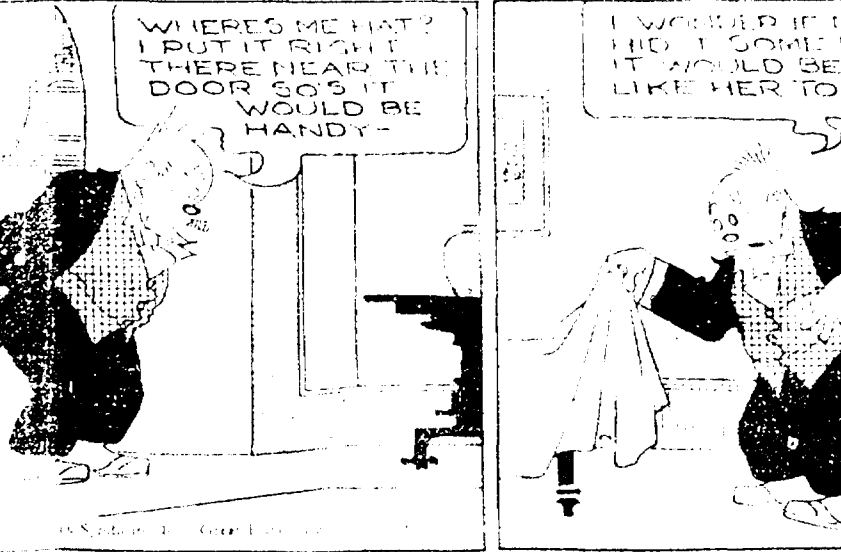

Brazil has finally sent an efficient envoy to the United States. He is charming charge d'affaires Cyro De Freitas Valle. His colleagues resent the fact that he gets to work before noon.
